College Admission Testing

Scholastic Assessment Test (SAT/CollegeBoard):

The SAT is usually taken the first time in the spring of the junior year and again in the fall of the senior year. Most four year colleges require a standardized assessment as part of the admission requirements. The SAT is composed of a critical reading test, a mathematical multiple-choice test and a writing component.

Register for the SAT at: <https://collegereadiness.collegeboard.org/sat/register>

SAT Subject Tests:

Some schools require achievement tests as part of the admission requirements. Consult the college catalogue or College Handbook for tests that may be required or recommended.

You cannot take the SAT Subject Test and the SAT on the same day. Be sure you plan your testing schedule wisely so all scores reach the colleges prior to the admissions deadline.

The ACT measures classroom achievement in four broad content areas as well as the ability to reason and apply problem-solving skills. The content areas assessed by the ACT are: Reading (Arts/Literature, Social Studies/Sciences), English (Usage/Mechanics, Rhetorical Skills), Mathematics (Pre-Algebra, Elementary Algebra, Intermediate Algebra, Coordinate Geometry, Plane Geometry, Trigonometry) and Science Reasoning.

How do I pick which colleges to visit?!

The more information you have about colleges and universities of interest, the better chance you have of making a good decision. There are many sources of information available to you. College catalogues and videos, MajorClarity (the computer program), BigFuture thru CollegeBoard, The College Handbook, The Book of Majors, and Getting Financial Aid, are readily available in the Career Center for student and parent use.

Your school counselor is also available to meet with you and your parents to assist in obtaining information and considering options. Teachers, college students, and alumni are excellent sources of information about colleges.

College representatives often make visits to high schools to meet with students. Their visits can provide an excellent opportunity to learn about colleges. To take advantage of this source of information, listen carefully for announcements of visits, check the School Counseling Offices Career Center bulletin boards and Schoology, follow us on Twitter @HCPSCareers and sign up for updates on college visits, scholarships, and careers.

School	College & Career Visit Sign-up Links
Atlee High School	Students can sign up for College and Career visits in the School Counseling office.

Lee-Davis HS	http://bit.ly/LDHSCareerEvents
Patrick Henry High School	No sign-up is necessary. The College and Career representatives will be available during all students lunches.

The College Visit

By far the most valuable source of information for you is the college visit. Make a visit to each school you're applying to! If at all possible, plan your visit during the academic year so you are on the campus while students are there and classes are in session. To make the most of your visit, you might utilize the following suggestions.

- Take a tour arranged by the admissions office.
- Talk with students to gain information on subjects of interest.
- Visit a class; and if possible, talk with faculty members.
- Visit the student center, the snack bar, the library, and the bookstore.
- Have a meal in the cafeteria.

Many colleges recommend an interview with someone in the admissions office. This interview may serve not only as a source of information about you for the admissions representative, but also as a source of information about the college for you. For this interview, consider the following:

- * Be prompt.
- * Dress appropriately.
- * Prepare before the interview by making a list of questions.
- * Do your research on the college.
- * Know your SAT/ACT scores, approximate rank-in-class, and latest grades in the courses you are presently taking. Talk about your accomplishments.
- * Be yourself.
- * When you get home, write a thank you letter.

Types of Admission

Rolling Admission:

A college using rolling admission does not set a due date for applications. Rather, the admissions office reviews an applicant's folder once it is complete. If the applicant meets the set criteria for admission, the student is offered admission to the college. It is advisable to apply early to schools that use a rolling admission policy.

Regular Admission:

A college using a regular admission sets a date by which all applications must be filed. After consideration is given to all the applications, decisions are communicated to the applicants.

Early Decision:

Many colleges offer an early decision plan as a means of attracting top-notch students. A student applying for early decision at highly selective schools should have three qualifications:

- at least a B+ average,
- SAT's of at least 1200,
- confidence that this is the college right college

If a student is accepted under an early decision plan, the student is committed to attend. Therefore, students should ONLY apply early decision to a college/university that is clearly their first choice and they are sure they will attend, if accepted.

Early Action:

Students receive a decision earlier than the standard response date but are not required to enroll or make a deposit prior to May 1.

Deferred Admission:

Students are permitted to postpone enrollment, usually for one year, after acceptance to the college.

College Application Tips

- Carefully read all directions accompanying the application prior to actually starting to the application.
- Be careful that all information is correct.
- If possible, download the application to practice filling in the required information. Have an adult proofread your application and essay if one is required before you fill in the information on the actual application.
- Be sure the actual application is filled out with no errors. Your application makes a statement about you. Take pride in your application; it may affect the admission decision.
- Confirm that teachers have submitted to your counselor the recommendation letters required by the college.
- On those applications requiring essays, write a rough draft of your essay first. Make certain you have completely answered the questions. Proofread your rough draft before entering it on the application form.

WHEN YOU WRITE YOUR ESSAY . . .

Do write lean! A cardinal rule, promulgated by former Cornell University professor William Strunk, Jr., is for the writer to omit needless words.

Do start early. Leave plenty of time to revise, reword, and rewrite.

Do read the directions carefully. You will want to answer the question as directly as possible; and you will want to follow word limits exactly.

Do focus on an aspect of yourself that will show your best side. You might have overcome some adversity, worked through a difficult project, or profited from a specific incident.

Do feel comfortable in expressing anxieties. Everybody has them, and it's good to know that an applicant can see them and face them.

Do speak positively. Negatives tend to turn people off.

Do write about your greatest assets and achievements. You should be proud of them!

Don't repeat information given elsewhere on your application. The committee has already seen it – and it looks as though you have nothing better to say.

Don't write on general, impersonal topics – like the nuclear arms race or the importance of good management in business. The college wants to know about you.

Don't sacrifice the essay to excuse your shortcomings unless you intend it to be a natural and integral part of your topic. If it's a question of underachievement, you should find a spot somewhere else in the application (or use a separate sheet of paper) to explain why you had not been working to your ability.

Don't use clichés.

Don't go to extremes: too witty, too opinionated, or too “intellectual.

Financial Aid Information

GRASP Advisors will be available to help students and parents with the following:

- Explain the College Financial Aid Process
- File the FAFSA or the Free Application for Federal Student Aid
- Complete additional financial aid applications for specific schools
- Locate outside scholarships
- Apply for work-study programs and student/parent loans
- Interpret Financial Aid Award Letters

All students should file a FAFSA. If you don't file, you will not be eligible for federal/state aid, work-study programs, or federal loans. In addition, you may not be eligible for merit scholarships based on grades, SATs, and athletics. Remember- it is free to file.

School and Community Scholarships

Students are strongly supported by local organizations and clubs. One scholarship form serves as an application for all scholarships that are administered by each high school's Scholarship Committee. This application is made available to students on August 1 and is due by December 31 at 12:00 midnight. The scholarship committee considers all submitted applications. Scholarships will be awarded at school Senior Award ceremonies.

The Student Athlete & NCAA Eligibility Center

Prospective student-athletes must register with the NCAA Clearinghouse in order for eligibility to be determined. Students should register online at <https://web3.ncaa.org/ecwr3/>. Remember each student must send a transcript to the Eligibility Center through Parchment. If official test scores appear on the transcript, they need not be sent separately. If they do not, the student must request additional score reports to be sent to the Eligibility Center. To do so, simply designate the NCAA Eligibility Center as a score recipient on the test registration form by filling in code 9999 in the section on college and scholarship codes.

Student-Athletes will be required to upload their own transcript to the NCAA through Parchment.
